

FLASH O' BOY

VISUAL ARTIST/ VISIONARY

-ABOUT THE ARTIST

The artist known as Flash O Boy is a Brooklyn artist, best known for his staple #followthepinkfro. He has curated and shown work in numerous gallery showings throughout New York City, from solo shows to art battles to murals on Governor's Island. Flash is on a mission to create an alternate universe where his goddess, a fruition of a woman pirate from Mozambique named Oshun Kemekolah,, reigns supreme. Also known as Kemekolah, she is donned with a pink fro that we all must follow to experience her journey, with bees, honey, water, and hidden and not so hidden creatures accompanying her along the way. He creates a surreal universe that comes to life not only in Kemekolah's surroundings but also in her hair, intertwined with her being, and occasionally, existing on its own. With the use of various materials - canvas, feathers, wood, the sides of buildings and utilization of marker, oil paint, or spray paint, Flash has made the world his canvas, making Kemekolah come to life not just on canvas and in art spaces but also on murals all over New York City. Flash continues to illuminate the art world with his colorful use of blending and popping images, as can be seen at his last show which he curated himself, called The Epic Art Party. His works can be seen on his Instagram and other online handles.
